NOTES FROM THE CHAIR

The August committee meeting (or 31 July this year) is traditionally the time when decisions are reached regarding subscription/fee rates for the coming year. I'm sure members will be pleased to learn a reduction in kid registration fees, show recognition fees and milk recording fees was approved – it is hoped this will encourage increased uptake in all these areas. Reduced show recognition fees will be for shows held during 2014, even if recognition application is made during 2013. It was previously also agreed to encourage members to sign up to Gift Aid and to this end, plans are afoot to facilitate same.

CAE requirements for goats being shown at mainland UK shows were discussed by the committee and it was agreed that a valid whole herd CAE certificate (i.e. test carried out within one year of show date) must be produced, regardless of legislative requirements in the animals place of origin. This will ensure all animals competing at BGS recognised shows are all of the same health status as is required under our R&Rs.

Quotes were received for our web site enhancement/upgrade, however it was agreed to seek more information from the various suppliers before reaching a decision.

A mistake was made in the July journal under the list of judges whose licences were up for renewal – Geoffrey Ringland should not have been on the list as his licence is not due for renewal until November 2014. This mistake is regretted.

A reminder that 2 Autumn Conferences are being held this year in completely different parts of the country – I, along with other members of the BGS committee, will be attending when we hope to meet as many members as possible in Scotland on 12 October or in Welsh & Marches Goat Society territory on 2 November.

SECRETARY'S NOTES

Dear Members,

A selection of information leaflets are now available to download as PDF files from: <http://www.allgoats.com/books.html>. These leaflets are also available for publicity at shows and to Affiliated Societies on request from the BGS office.

Some back copies of the Monthly Journal are available to download via the Journal Archive link: <http://www.allgoats.com/publications.htm>

Please make sure that registration applications on behalf of Affiliated Societies members are correctly filled in and that they include full contact details with phone number and/or email address. This would prevent some applications having to be returned.

I visited the 200th Border Union show and was delighted to see 7 young exhibitors handling goats. Well done those youngsters. HRH The Countess of Wessex attended the show as Patron which included a visit to the goat section, showing great interest and speaking to the Judge Brian Perry, stewards and several exhibitors. Photographs of this show in next months Journal.

Best Wishes
Jane

THE PURE TOGGENBURG SHOW

Iwould like to say a big thank you to everyone who attended the Breed Show at Newark. The show was a great success, there were many positive comments regarding the Pure Toggenburg classes, the weather was fabulous, there was good food and great company, we even managed to get a bit of showing in too.

Again, many thanks,
J Bell.

TYEGRONON HERD DIARY

The Tyegronon Anglo Nubian Herd has been in existence now for over 40 years. It is run by myself and my daughter Gabrielle. Many years ago she went down the road of "shall I have a prefix" of my own? We decided in the end, if it was good enough for the Mostyn-Owen's (mother & daughter) it was good enough for us to share a prefix as well. Our goats have never failed to let us down. We have bred a vast number of Breed Champions, high yielders, Sire of Merits etc. Along with the Berkham's & Spean's we have bred three full champion Anglo Nubians, being the only (to date) three herds of this breed ever to achieve this.

April 1st - 7th

Still snowed in! Our property lays back from the (very minor) road, down a lane with a band of grass running along the centre. At present it is blocked with 2' of snow. This is what we get living up so high.

Mondays and Thursdays I try to give 2 hours + to the second book I am writing – The History of the Anglo Nubian in the UK. Also a knock on from this will be a book of AN prefix's. Some days I can give more time to this project. It is going to take a while I fear.

WEDNESDAY: Remembering it's April. Our dear old lady Eeyecacher is hard in season!! She will not be having any more kids. Last year she put her hip out – still out. I thought then her days were numbered, apparently not. She has never been lame, can manage with ease to get on the milking stand and her raised bed. Even stands on her back legs and looks over the pen door when she hears me coming. Milked well all last year and I'm still milking her now, way over 365 days since last kidding.

THURSDAY: We were notified that the electricity would be off from 9.30 – 4pm today. So it is out with the little show gas ring. In fact it's rather like being at a show in my own 'kitchen tent'. The slight worry with no power is the incubator which Gabbie has full with eggs. Hot water bottle filled and blanket covering it. Hope all will be OK.

FRIDAY: Must get the paperwork I promised Lynne in the post today, regarding the ANBS winter milking competition.

SATURDAY: Grand National. Horses are a big love with Gabbie and myself. Always had them. At present we have two Arabians and a 3 year old Welsh Cob x Ardennes called The Warrior. Endurance and showing being their fortitude.

SUNDAY. Hooray. Lane is drive-able. Off to worm friends Pygmy goats and a natter over coffee.

April 8th – 14th

Still snowing but beginning to look hopeful re thaw. We are planning to have an "Open Day" for the Herefordshire Goat Club along with the Llanfoist Poultry Club in May. This will require a bit of tidying up around place, but the concern at the moment is parking. The road field, which we would use for this is still VERY wet. Lets try and think positive as it is a good 4 weeks away.

THURSDAY: I have a meeting in Malvern for 11 am (1 hours drive from home) regarding the Royal Three Counties Show in June. This is to discuss the new site for the goat section. Putting Angora, Pygmy & Dairy altogether. It will give masses of parking around the marquees and should be a great improvement from the old site. 12.30pm. Well that's the meeting over. Sorry to report, but at closing date, number of exhibitors forward, three. The Angoras are one up, with four. The Counties plan to leave entries open for a few more days. See if there are any still in the post. A decision to be made next week.

FRIDAY: Notice the straw supply getting rather low. Must get Gabbie to order more soon. Since we have changed to raised beds the amount of straw the goats use has reduced dramatically. However, I do spend more time sweeping, especially when the goats are in.. The communal yard being done three time a day, (that's more than our house gets per week!!) while the goats individual night pens just once.

SATURDAY: Up and about early as I'm going to the BGS AGM and Affiliated Societies meeting for 11am. Well attended and hosted brilliantly by the Gloucestershire Goat Club. I was acting as a delegate for the Hereford Goat Club and the Mercian Milk Recording Group.

SUNDAY. Took a long look at the "goats' kitchen" Requires a good Spring clean. I am so lucky as to reach the goat house I don't have to go outside. Can get there in my slippers!! A short walk from the house, through the covered porch, on through my husband's very large studio – he's a sculptor- and into the goat kitchen/utility room, then on down into the goat house with the attached hay barn, through to the American barn type stables. Living where we do, with not much between us and the Black Mountains, while the views are wonderful the weather can be harsh at times, so having everything under cover (no wellie boots needed) is great.

April 15th – 21st

MONDAY: New fence going up. Man came and banged in the posts today for us to finish off with railings. The problem being Warrior. He has absolutely no respect for fences. Just jumps or pushes them over. Look out boy. This one is going to be higher with electricity along the top.

TUESDAY: Every Tuesday morning I go to a local craft meeting. Good to get away and natter with my non goaty friends.

WEDNESDAY: The day of reckoning for the Royal Three Counties Show. Informed this morning from the show manager that 2013 Dairy Goat Section will be cancelled. With just 5 exhibitors in the end it is a no-no. The decision was not made lightly. They are asking for a display for goats and happy to supply a small scale marquee in which to do this. Last year saw a record entry, however, due to a number of unforeseen circum-

THE ROYAL THREE COUNTIES

This year sadly the Dairy Goat section did not go ahead due to insufficient entries (Last year saw a record entry but attendance over the weekend was disappointing, due to many unforeseen circumstances).

The Counties asked if a display could be put on and being only too pleased to provide the marquee. The three local Goat Clubs were keen to support this. Hereford Club (which is very active) were happy to lead the way, while Worcester sent plenty of useful information and Gloucester supported with two stewards for Friday.

We had an excellent supply of BGS paperwork from Jane in the office, this was backed up by a BGS advertising roll up, helping to give a very professional display.

Every day the stewards on duty were busy with inquiries, lets hope some of these will join Goat Clubs/BGS and become showing exhibitors, maybe even next year.

Regarding this, a meeting will be taking place soon, so it is back to the drawing board and hopefully the Royal Three Counties can see the return of the two (back to back) Dairy Goat Shows for 2014.

Maggi Franklin

stances (one being the weather) very few were able to attend. This years decision has nothing to do with that. Not only the Dairy Goats had a low entry but also the Angoras. The expense involved for the latter, is not so great as ours and they did manage to persuade some more people to enter.

THURSDAY: Goatling's feet need attention. Maybe tomorrow. Scrapie paperwork down to the vets for signing etc. then in the post to SACS. Do wonder why I'm still doing this. In conversation with DEFRA at the moment regarding the order for Germany next month.

FRIDAY: The goatlings, Llahdidah, Lladybird and Llookingood, manicure (or should that be pedicure) achieved. You may well wonder why the strange spellings. At the start of our goat breeding days we began with the letter "A" for their names, moving on a letter each year. Lots of breeders do this. Then came the return of "A" and my daughter had the bright idea of doubling the first letter for our second run through the alphabet. So off we went again. Many other goat keepers have said they wished they had thought of this. Last year's names look very Welsh with the two "Ll's" Export inquiry from Greece this morning. I receive such inquiries regularly as I'm sure others do as well. Gone are the days when we had a good number of goats, but with just seven females and one male now, to find surplus stock from the herd is not easy. We only have one to kid this year at the end of the month. Having said that, there will be four come 2014 and I don't want to keep everything. Knowing what ANs are capable of we could end up with twelve kids. Oh help!! Spent part of the afternoon painting in the goats' kitchen and mixing up feed for them. The latter is usually a Friday job. Goats done early this evening as I'm going to Llanfoist Poultry Club meeting with Gabbie tonight.

SATURDAY: Herefordshire Goat club meeting. This wonderful little club meets at a Pub in Hereford from September to March. We often have a speaker followed by lunch. It is always very well attended. At the AGM last November members requested meetings all year round. In the past we stopped in the Spring and Summer because most were at shows, but now only three members are doing this. So all year round meeting it is to be. I reported the news regarding the Royal Three Counties and asked if the club would be prepared to help with a display. A small group from those present offered their help and an "action meeting" was arranged for next week.

SUNDAY: Filled in our Royal Welsh entry and will post in the morning. Heard from the Mercian Milk Recording Secretary that our group had achieved second place from herds recording with NMR in Worcestershire area. This was including cows as well as goats. All Mercian members will be receiving a copy of the certificate. So it was first - cows - second GOATS and third cows. This being for Worcestershire NMR Automatic Entry Herd Class F. "Production Improvement" awarded to the herd with the highest %

April 22nd - 30th

MONDAY: Ltdedition (aka LTD) not himself this morning. Breakfast, no thanks. Sorted some very good meadow hay and went to get the thermometer. Temperature down just a little. Will keep a close eye on him. By mid afternoon he was interested in the Readigrass and hay rack empty. Re filled and left him eating it. Come evening he was back to his normal bossy way.

TUESDAY: It's end of month so time to restock the goats' larder. Have just sourced a new supplier and saving £2 on every bag of mixed feed.

WEDNESDAY: Off to the meeting with the Hereford Club volunteers re the RTC Show. Lot's of ideas and looking/sounding promising. Need to contact Worcestershire & Gloucestershire Clubs, after all it is the Three Counties.

FRIDAY: Gabbie is busy bathing her white Silkies for tomorrows chicken show. Rather like keeping white goats but on a smaller scale. They seem to enjoy their bath & blow dry. I'm going with her. As it will be a very early start, after milking tonight I'm going to dish up all the goats' feed ready for a dash round in the morning.

SATURDAY: Up before dawn. Rush round doing the goats. Too early to put them all together. Harry will see to that at the normal time. Packed lunch ready. It's 5.45am and we are on the road to Shropshire. Day goat shows were never this early a start!!! On board we have a male & female white Silkie, 2 Vorwerk girls, plus 2 Vorwerk boys. Malpas & Whitchurch Chicken Fanciers here we come. I never knew what a goat related day I was about to have. For a start the name of the show itself. I'm sure some of you will remember the Malpas prefix belonging to the Egerton's from way back. I think they lived in Ipswich. Malpas Malba being a well known goat of the day. So even our destination was linked to goats. Gabbie, explaining to another exhibitor that this was my first chicken show and I had not a clue what to do, but had it been a goat show things would be different! 'I had goats' the wife said. We were members of the West Midland Goat Club. It surmised that they bought them from someone in Worcester, could not remember the name. Bumped into them again later in the day. Connie Wicket, said I. That's it came the reply. Coleswick was her prefix. The day ended on a high. 1st & 2nd with the Silkies. The two Vorwerk cockerels 1st & 3rd, in a very strong class, while the Vorwerk hens were 2nd & 1st and the latter then took Championship Rare Breeds.

SUNDAY: Prepared the kidding pen for Jjustt who is starting to fill her udder. Goats enjoyed being in the outside yard this morning with the sun on their back. Not able to go in the Spring grazing fields yet as the fencing still not finished.

MONDAY: Two Breed Rosette orders arrived today. Gabbie and I have been doing this service for all the Breed Societies over the past 10 years. The cost of postage is so high now. Making the package as flat as possible is the secret, not easy. The demand for these special rosettes at shows has dwindled greatly. Fencing finished so all being well the goats can go out tomorrow.

TUESDAY: Here I am at the end of April. What a difference from the start. Snow all gone and there in the blue, blue sky shining oh so brightly, the sun. To add to this wonder, the goats are out in the field grazing. Me, well I'm a very happy goat keeper. Wishing you all a wonderful summer.

Hay Making 2013

What a difference a year makes when it comes to making the hay for the goats for the winter. Last year not a blade of grass had been mown until after St Swithuns day and this year all the hay is in the barn, the equipment had been cleaned off, greased, and put back in the barn even before the anniversary of poor old St Swithun's re-burial!!!

Good hay is made from good 'grass', and looking after the pasture is year-round good practise. The country saying is that your fields should be of good 'heart' and have plenty of 'bottom'! During the winter months the fields are never over trodden or poached by cattle (when we had them) and horses. Goats with their dainty feet are not damaging. Any thistles and ragwort is dug out. (It seems to be mainly the local councils that allow this pernicious weed to flourish on all their verges!) The hay fields are shut up at the end of March and the goats have access to 2 fair size paddocks. From the beginning of June Alan 'strims' a barrow of grass a day from the perimeter round the fence line in the hay field for the goats to supplement their grass intake. After the hay is made they roam all over and do a good job of bringing all the fences in front of the hedges back into view!!! Every few years the fields are 'dressed' with seaweed which seems to aid palatability. The topper tidies up the fields in the autumn.

The decision was made to big bale one of the 4 acre fields.

Monday 24th June: Grass was cut. The next few days, it was turned each day, cooking nicely, then a shower of rain (not forecast!). Not 'messed' about too much as the sun was hot and did not want to bleach the colour out of it. It has to be left an extra day for the big bales

Sunday 30th June: Husband rowed up 4 of his rows into one huge wake with the old Vicon-Lely acrobat turner and at 4 pm in the afternoon £140,000 worth of the latest John Deere kit pulls in the field. It all sits astride the rows, gobbles up the hay and rolls it into 27 neatly net-wrapped big bales – 4'6" in diameter and all within half an hour. A miracle to behold!!! The 2 of us got the bales into the barn well within an hour, 5 at the time on the trailer. The new spikes and weights did their job - All stacked in 9 piles of 3 with not an oath uttered or a bead of sweat on the brow.

The other 4 acres was made in the usual 'grunt' way, of 307 small bales.

Mowed on Friday the 5th July, turned it on Saturday and again on Sunday. The tedder shook the dew out of it on Monday (8th July) morning, then an hour later rowed it all up and baled it just after lunch. Wall to wall sunshine with no threat of rain made it all easy and almost enjoyable!. It is quite a novelty to have weeks of summer without the stress of wondering when to mow.

A 'tractor friend' of Alan's took a lot of videos on the Monday when he was 'tedding', 'rowing up' and baling. This is for a winters' talk at the tractor club. I sat on one of the new bales and listened to the soporific beat of the baler in the sun, watching the swallows before the next 'gather up' Perfect!

Friend's final 'voice over' comment on the video phone was: 'this is the way to make perfect hay from perfect grass in perfect weather' I do hope in the final editing he obliterates my comments – one tends to forget that all modern technology picks up EVERYTHING!!

Alternative to Ear tags

We are all aware of the problems with ear tags tearing out and causing infection and other problems, although goat keepers are required to tag they do not need to use EID tags. Another approved solution is to use pastern tags. Up to now there has been no pastern tags approved for use on goats. I have now tracked down a pastern tag made in France and arranged for it to be available in the UK. It is available as non-electronic and will soon be available as EID. The non-electronic has been approved by DEFRA for use on Goats and hopefully the EID version will soon be approved. Available in various colours to aid management tagging, the large clear numerals make it very easy to read, and for those who milk in a parlour it makes it very quick to identify the individual animal and if you wish to use the EID feature to record yields etc. it is more readily accessible on the ankle. It is easily attached using a variable size secure system that once attached cannot be removed except by cutting off. Also available is the same strap but secured by an 'R' clip ideal for identifying kids as it can be adjusted to allow for the leg to grow. The use of a pastern tag combined with a tattoo will save ears from being torn and goats/kids being stuck in stock fences. How much better it would be if goats could be double pastern tagged no more torn ears!! Preparing For AI

Yes it's that time of year again. If you are interested in using AI you need to be making arrangements to ensure your chosen straws are in the appropriate tank in the right location for the autumn breeding season. It is difficult & can be very expensive to move straws around at the last minute.

If you haven't done a BGS Approved AI Course yourself you will either need to locate a licensed inseminator in your area (very few have the time to drop everything and dash off to AI for others at the right time) or make use of lap AI if you are within driving distance of a facility. A few veterinary practices provide a lap AI service including "Innovis Ltd" who regularly lap AI goats at their Malvern & Edinburgh Centres. Laparoscopic AI is a surgical procedure which places the semen directly into the uterine horns. In my opinion the best person to AI a goat is the owner as timing is critical. And the goat will be more relaxed (important to minimise stress) with its owner and in a familiar place. However lap AI has a good rate of success and is well worth considering if you can access it. Any of the straws listed here can be transferred to Malvern or Edinburgh for lap AI. Or to other tanks if possible. Please get in touch if you need help or info:-

Here is my up to date list of domestic semen available for 2013.

Do check out the pedigrees. Many super bloodlines only available now by AI:-
